

Our People

Maureen Leslie

DIRECTOR

I have 22 years' experience of corporate recovery and insolvency. Although I take all kinds of insolvency appointments, my main area of expertise is in providing advice to directors whose companies are experiencing difficulties. I believe strongly in the business recovery ethos and in the role insolvency practitioners can bring to distressed situations. I am an enthusiastic advocate of the company voluntary agreement (CVA) procedure, which I believe, in Scotland, is an underutilised survival tool, protecting companies from liquidation.

Antonia McIntyre

DIRECTOR

I qualified as a Chartered Accountant in 1998 and have 11 years' experience of both personal and corporate insolvency. One of my key areas of specialism is Members Voluntary Liquidation (MVL), which is assisting shareholders towards a strategic exit in a tax efficient manner, working with key accounting partners. I believe it is critical to ensure individuals within personal insolvency or Directors in corporate cases receive a high quality tailored solution, to suit their circumstances. I volunteer monthly at free debt clinics which mlm run at our charitable partner SAMH's drop-in facility in Glasgow.

Stephanie Burton

MANAGER

My first job after leaving university was with Ernst & Young. I was with them for just under four years, where I trained in the audit and accounts departments before moving into insolvency. After that I spent five years broadening my experience in such diverse areas as business planning, government body budgets and stock control for housing associations.

Adam Bullough

TEAM LEADER

I have been working in insolvency for the past five years, previously working for the Insolvency Service in the redundancy payments office, providing me with extensive knowledge of employee issues during insolvency. I am the team leader at our Livingston office and I manage a wide portfolio of personal and corporate insolvencies.

Allan McLeod

SENIOR MANAGER

I started working in a small insolvency firm in 1994, subsequently spent five years in the Corporate Recovery department of a Big 4 Accountancy Firm and now manage the Corporate Solutions team in our Glasgow office. I have gained significant experience in trading businesses during insolvency, including a group of nursing homes, an exporting electronics company and engineering businesses.

Nicola Scott

TEAM LEADER

I have been working in Insolvency for nine years. As the Senior Insolvency Administrator, I am part of a busy team in the heart of Glasgow. I am responsible for my own case load, progressing each one from administration to closure. I have regular contact with debtors and creditors, handling challenging and difficult situations with care and empathy. I am also an affiliate member of the Institute of Credit Management and a committee member for the West of Scotland branch.
